

Emerging Trends In Property Management Services

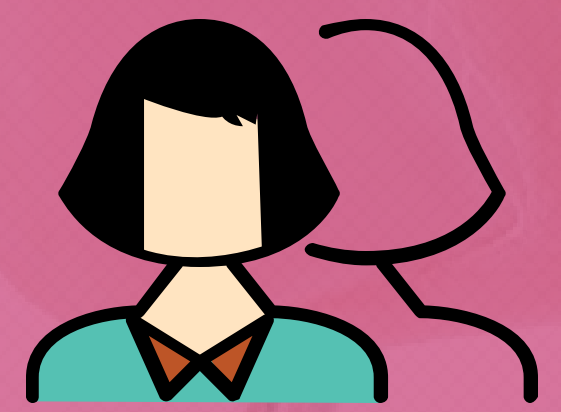

Property management services are essential for rental property owners to manage various aspects of the property.

Emerging trends in these services are:

01 Technology plays an important part in property management industry such as tenant communication portals, online maintenance requests, etc.

02 Property managers are paying increased attention to tenant screening and use stringent parameters for qualifying prospective tenants.

03 As the real estate investment industry is growing, property managers are focusing on adding unique features to the properties for attracting quality tenants.

04 Property managers are focussing on new property marketing techniques and using the internet to their advantage.

05 Demand for rental units is increasing, this has changed the outlook for improved and enhanced property management services.
